

Pledge on Intergenerational Fairness – Social media copies

For politicians:

I have just signed the  Pledge on Intergenerational Fairness. This is a commitment to place the wellbeing of current and future generations at the center.

Making sure all generations are considered in the decision-making process is something that should come naturally, and I am taking another step in that direction.

I want to make a promise to the future.

The right direction, for a stronger Europe.

For citizens:

I call on my local politicians to sign a  Pledge on Intergenerational Fairness, to embed their commitment to place the wellbeing of current and future generations at the center.

Making sure all generations are considered in the decision-making process is something that should come naturally, let's take a step in that direction.

Do you want more sustainable development, accessible housing and affordable mobility?

The right direction, for a stronger Europe.
